CREATING WILDER PRIMARY SCHOOL COMMITTEES

Give your pupils the opportunity to investigate first-hand and take direct action on how their school engages with nature.

Getting started

A Wilder Schools Committee is a small group of selected pupils who regularly get together to discuss what changes they'd like to make to the school grounds, sustainability credentials of the school, or outdoor learning opportunities. The selected pupils can come from existing groups such as an eco-group, school council or a particular class, or children can nominate themselves to join the committee

Get your headteacher on board

Support from your headteacher or governors will be essential for any changes your committee wishes to make. You can write to your headteacher and the governors at any point in the committee process; use your own judgement to find the best time to approach them.

Setting up your meetings

The committee should meet up regularly (once a month is great). It is up to you and your pupils how you structure the meetings, but you might like to consider:

- Assigning roles to participants - you could have a note taker, a meeting chair, chief photographer, or artist.
- Creating a written plan or drawing of the changes you'd like to see.
- Hosting an assembly or information afternoon to share your plans with other pupils and get their opinions and ideas.
- Measuring how the changes you make are making a difference to wildlife. You may use our survey pack to help you.

Support from the wider school

Why not consider involving your Governors, Friends of groups or Parent Teacher Association (PTA) to help support and raise funds for projects.

You're ready to take action

If you want to raise money for your projects, consider organising a fundraising activity such as a bake sale or finding sponsors. If you need to do some practical work such as planting wildflower seeds or setting up recycle bins, you can set aside time in your regular meetings to do so and invite parents and friends to join in.

We can help

- We'll provide the staff member or volunteer leading the group with support to set up your committee and keep it running via phone calls and emails.
- We can help start your committee group and deliver a workshop as part of our Wilder Learners Package.
- The staff member leading your group can become a Wilder Schools leader and gain access to free training and networking with other educational setting-based staff and volunteers.
- Get involved by taking part in the Wilder School Challenge, coming up with a project linked with the annual theme eg. soils. Find out the annual theme on your Moodle account.

Is this free?

Yes, it's free to set up and you'll receive free follow-up support. If you'd like to help the Trust, here are some ways to do so:

- We're a charity so we'd really appreciate it if you would like to raise funds for us. Go to: hiwwt.org.uk/fundraise-wildlife to find out how.
- We offer our Wild Learners package at £180. This package includes school grounds advice, assembly and committee workshop. We also offer other packages and training courses. You can find out more about these here hiwwt.org.uk/Schools-groups.
